

Hello and happy New Year! Did you have a good winter vacation?

We at REAPS hope you certainly did. Now that school is back it is time to make sure that your worms are okay. Give them a good fluff and check their moisture and food levels.

Add what is needed and then return to your normal weekly routine. As always if you are wondering about anything with your worms let the Worm Lady know and she will be happy to drop by your classroom.

Wanting to learn more about your worms and the bin they live in? Check out our corresponding activities to the Adopt-a-Worm Program!

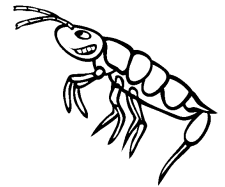

Worm Observations

During this presentation students will learn more about the biology of their worms and through observation see how their worms react to different stimuli.

Creatures of the Worm Bin

During this presentation students will learn about and get to look for the other organisms that are living in their worm bin. They will learn which of these organisms are a pests, friends or a combination of both for their worms.

Harvesting

During this presentation students will sort through their worm bins separating their worms from the castings. To take part in this bin most of the paper will need to have been eaten so please check with the worm lady before booking.

If you have any questions, would like more information or would like to book on any of these presentations (or any of the other 30 presentations REAPS has to offer) please give us a call or send us an email!
