

Happy Valentines Day! From everyone here at REAPS and all your worm friends in your classrooms. Check out these romantic worm facts so that you can feel a little closer to the red wiggler visitors you have. Don't forget to give the Worm Lady a call if you have any questions and keep up the good work!

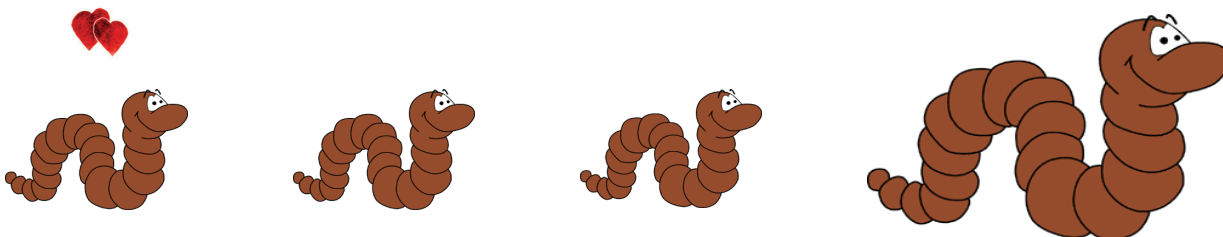

A heartfelt Valentine's Day

Your red wiggler friends have so much love to share on Valentine's Day. Did you know that they have 5 pairs of hearts? Each heart pumps blood through the worm's body and are found right behind the brain. They also only make up 5% of the entire worm's body.

♥♥ Worm Babies!

Keep an eye out for some brand new worms in your worm bin! They will look just like little white threads until they eat something. Take a look through to bin and see if you spot some! After another 6 weeks, these babies will be able to produce their own babies and the cycle will continue.
